The Council does not have a formal bonus scheme for the purposes of this report we are required to include honorariums as a bonus.

Below is a table depicting pay quartiles by gender showing Eastbourne Borough Council 's workforce is divided into four equal-sized groups based on hourly pay rates, with Band A including the lowest-paid 25% of employees (the lower quartile) and Band D covering the highest-paid 25% (the upper quartile).

In order for there to be no gender pay gap, there would need to be an equal ratio of men to women in each band. Within Eastbourne Borough Council there is a reasonably even (but not quite equal) percentage of men and women in posts in the lower quartile. There is a higher percentage of women than men in the upper middle quarter and in the upper quartile there are 48.13% males and 51.87% females.

Pay quartiles by gender

Band	Males	Females	Description
A	48.11%	51.89%	Includes all employees whose standard hourly rate places them at or below the lower quartile
B	61.95%	38.05%	Includes all employees whose standard hourly rate places them above the lower quartile but at or below the median
C	38.66%	61.34%	Includes all employees whose standard hourly rate places them above the median but at or below the upper quartile
D	48.13%	51.87%	Includes all employees whose standard hourly rate places them above the upper quartile

The figures set out above have been calculated using the standard methodologies used in the Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017.

What are the underlying causes of Eastbourne Borough Council's gender pay gap?

Under the law, men and women must receive equal pay for:

- the same or broadly similar work;
- work rated as equivalent under a job evaluation scheme; or
- work of equal value.

Eastbourne Borough Council is committed to the principle of equal opportunities and equal treatment for all employees, regardless of sex, race, religion or belief, age, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy/maternity, sexual orientation, gender reassignment or disability. It has a clear policy of paying employees equally for the same or equivalent work, regardless of their sex (or any other characteristic set out above). As such it evaluates job roles and pay grades as necessary to ensure a fair structure.

Eastbourne Borough Council is confident that its gender pay gap does not stem from paying men and women differently for the same or equivalent work. On the date that this information was taken, as was the case last year, we employed more females than males, therefore it is perhaps not surprising that there are more women than men at almost every level of the organisation.

How does Eastbourne Borough Council's gender pay gap compare with that of other organisations?

The vast majority of organisations have a gender pay gap, and we are pleased to be able to say that Eastbourne Borough Council's gap compares very favourably with that of other organisations.

The civil service gender pay gap has narrowed from 13.6% in 2016 to 9.8% in 2018. This compares favourably with the public sector as a whole where the gender pay gap is 19% currently.

The mean gender pay gap for the whole economy (according to the April 2018 Office for National Statistics (ONS) Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE) figures is 17.9%.

At 3.5% Eastbourne Borough Council's mean gender pay gap is significantly lower than that for the whole economy and the public sector as a whole. We believe this reflects the fact that we have male and female staff represented almost equally in each level of the organisation.

What is Eastbourne Borough Council doing to address its gender pay gap?

While Eastbourne Borough Council's gender pay gap compares favourably with that of organisations across the whole UK economy this is not a subject about which Eastbourne Borough Council is complacent, and it is committed to doing everything that it can to reduce the gap.

We already monitor gender in our recruitment process and amongst our employees to understand:

- the proportions of men and women applying for jobs and being recruited;
- the proportions of men and women applying for, and obtaining promotions;
- the proportions of men and women leaving the organisation and their reasons for leaving;
- the numbers of men and women in each role and pay band;
- take-up of flexible working arrangements by gender and level within the organisation;

- the proportion of men and women who return to their original job after a period of maternity or other parental leave; and
- the proportion of men and women still in post a year on from a return to work after a period of maternity or other parental leave

In the coming year, we are also committed to:

- We will continue to monitor the payment of honoraria to ensure that there is no bias towards either gender in considering bonuses or in any other employment related matter
- We will continue to monitor our recruitment into the upper middle quartile. As an equal opportunities employer, we firmly believe in appointing the best candidate into the role, regardless of their gender or other factors covered by the quality Act
- We will continue to actively encourage flexible working across our organisation where the needs of the service allow.
